Foreword

From the Auctioneers,

Hazlett Ltd are pleased to offer this year's catalogue of rams on behalf of the Glenloe Stud. This year's rams will provide you with improved genetics and foot scores showing all the qualities of the ideal dual-purpose sheep.

50 selected lots of the Glenloe Dohne rams will be on offer.

As auctioneers, we highly recommend these sheep as being worthy of inspection and strongly suggest that you bid online or join us on Sale Day, Thursday 9th December.

From the Vendor - Richard Loe,

Here are the Dohne Glenloe 2021 Sale Rams.

The rams have come through the winter well and have come forward in great condition for the sale.

Of the rams 16 have the 1.1 foot score and 26 carry the 1 in their foot score. Their average EMA's get better each year while holding at 18.5 average micron and average fleece weight of 4.5kg hogget fleece.

As per normal the sale will be on farm at the Waimakariri Gorge on Thursday 9th December as last year the sale will be a Helmsman auction using the Yourbid platform.

Clever selling tool catches on

A new livestock sales platform idea is sweeping the stud sector.

Yourbid was developed during the Covid-19 lockdown period earlier this year by the Giddings family as an online platform to host the sale of sheep and cattle bred at Meadowslea, their South Canterbury base west of Fairlie.

Meadowslea principal David Giddings is quick to give his son George credit for leading the development of the website platform, but says it's already catching on elsewhere in the world because of its simplicity and the pressure-free opportunity it presents for buyers to consider their purchases.

"It's gone ballistic really," he says.

Meadowslea formulated an agreement with a stud operation in the UK which used the new platform last month for the first time. The sale generated over 1700 bids on 110 rams and produced a record gross revenue, smashing the previous best average price by 40%.

Giddings says Yourbid offers registered buyers the chance to view the catalogue of stock and videos over several days once the sale catalogue is open for viewing. They can place bids and watch progress on each lot right up to the sale closing time.

"It just gives people time to consider their purchasing decisions. They can watch a video of each lot, talk it over with others in the family or their agent, and make a decision to place a bid or not."

"Yourbid means buyers can buy based on their own order of choice, rather than by lot number as they have to now with a traditional auction sale."

The Giddings' have used videos in the past to showcase animals and the Helmsman 'silent' auction system for previous sheep sales.

Buyers register on the platform to view each sale catalogue and a commission is still paid to the livestock firms that are involved with each purchaser. Bids are also anonymous to other bidders and only the buyer's number is displayed alongside the lot number and price until the conclusion of the sale when all buyers' details appear on the screen. All registrations and buyer details are retained by the vendor which allows dialogue and advice to be shared in the days leading up to the sale.

Buyers are encouraged to bid until the sale ends and provided there are no further bids within two minutes of a sale's official ending, the sale finishes and the top bidder for each lot is notified of their success. If a bid comes in within that two minutes on a particular lot or lots, the sale continues until that two minute minimum deadline is reached.

Giddings says local agents have embraced the platform because they also have time to review and offer advice on specific lots to their clients, which helps to enhance their service.

The first ram auction in NZ using the Yourbid platform will be the Meadowslea Ram sale offering 300 Rams closing on November 26 followed by the Glenloe Dohne Merino offering of 40 two-tooth rams by stud principal, Richard Loe, Waimakiriri Gorge, closing on December 10.

Dohne's a good fit at Rata Peaks (from 2020)

Sometimes having a bet each way works better than putting all your money on a horse to win. It's a strategy that's working well for the Taylors at Rata Peaks Station in the Rangitata Valley, South Canterbury.

To continue the betting analogy, the breed they backed shortly after taking on the 1836ha property in 1989 is the Merino, and since 2001, the Dohne-strain of Merino, which is where the each-way bet comes in.

"When we're buying rams we're concentrating on feet and eye-muscle area," says Sam Taylor, who is gradually taking up the reins from mother Jan Taylor and her partner Craig Feaver.

Birthweight and weightgain EBVs are also checked, then they look at the wool.

"The wool is coming back into it too. We're trying to get the best of everything," admits Sam.

Getting the wool weight up is the main focus on the wool side. Currently average ewe clip is about 4.5kg from the annual mid-September shearing, and the hoggets 3.0 to 3.5kg, or a bit more for the remaining wethers amongst them.

Now lamb/hogget fleeces are consistently 17 to 18 micron and ewes 19-20.

Only three years ago, in March 2017, some of their hogget fleece at 17.7 micron hit the headlines for making the highest price at auction in Australasia.

"It made $31.04/kg clean. We averaged $18.50/kg clean for all our wool that season." But meat is an important income stream for the business too. The Dohne's have more than enough fertility for the long-winter, normally summer-dry, environment and produce a higher value carcass when finished.

"We only wet/dry scan but we tail about 120% from our mixed aged ewes so they must be scanning at about 150%. Two-tooths tail 100%," says Sam.

There's no shepherding. "We have a lock-up and leave policy."

Besides black faced lambs from the terminal mob, the bottom quarter of the Merino lambs are sold store and they finish everything else, taking about 1400 lambs through the winter from which they select their 450 replacement hoggets. The rest have been sold prime on a contract to Blue Sky Meats through local PGW agent, Rod Sands, for the past five or six years.

"They're good quality lambs, prime, and they yield very well," says Sands.

Good growth rates also mean they're hitting the optimum carcass weight for the contract of around 22kg at what's usually the peak of the market in October.

As of the end of October this year, 784 had gone, averaging 21.8kg at $7.20/kg excluding GST, with 170 left to go, mostly non-replacement ewe lamb, said Jan.

They wouldn't cut teeth until well into the New Year, but they'd probably be gone in the next three or four weeks – ie late November – anyway, she added.

Again this year as we did at last years On Farm sale we will be gifting the purchaser of each Ram on the day a pair of Smartwool socks

Our Dohne ewe wool all goes into the Smartwool contract so we think its only fitting that we use something made from a product our Dohnes grow to thankyou for your support.
